TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

THE BRITISH BLOW-UP.

The Irish Credited With the Explosion.Dynamite O'Rossas Taken
Credit For It.

New York, 16.—The Tribune and other journals interviewing Egan as to the Westminster explosion represent him and his colleagues, President Gaingher, John Devoy, Meenan and P. J. Sheridan, as truthfully incredulous as to the alleged cause, but quite wary and reticent. Egan thinks it may have been a gas explosion, but with our present information we can say nothing about it.

A reporter asked Patrick Egan and asked him what he thought of the attempt to blow up the government offices in London. "There are no persons under the sun," said Egan, "so subject to panic as the English people. Here a common explosion of gas pipes or something similar occurs in the sight of offices as it might anywhere, but just because they are the government offices the cry is raised 'Oh, it's dynamite.' Later they turn it into Irish dynamite. It is Ireland, of course, I dare say, if Sheridan had been there, they would have put him down as connected with it."

"Do you suppose the Land League fund paid for this new outrage?"

"Why do you attach any political significance to it at all? If it were the House of Parliament, could it not stand it, but there are merely the government offices, at least 300 yards away with a block of buildings between. Now, what politics can there be in an office explosion?"

"Then you do not connect it with a disturbance of any sort?"

"With our present information we can say or think nothing about it. We can say the rumor, that is all, and I am inclined to think the first report of the being a mere explosion of gas is the correct one."

When O'Donovan Rossa was asked to-day whether the explosion in London was caused by dynamite or was an accidental explosion of gas he answered: "We could not follow out our system unless we used dynamite, and that is what caused the explosion. There was no accident about it."

Do you think it was intended to destroy the building only, or all those within?"

"It was intended to do all the damage possible, and it was done to show England she had better give Ireland her own parliament. England is at war with Ireland and Ireland should be at war with England."

Rossa showed the following dispatch from Boston: "I congratulate you on the news from London this morning. I can collect money in Boston."

(Signed) JOHN D. BARKER.

Rossa said he had received to-day offers of money, and he can obtain all that is needed. In answer to a question as to what would next be done, he showed a letter advising him to publish in his paper a declaration of war on England, signed by representative Irishmen. When that was done it could not be claimed that their action was dishonorable. As for Rossa's full availability, he said he would be used. This, he said, was his answer.

Patrick J. Sheridan, whose extradition England has requested, said the work is that of Irishmen, and is but the advance picket. Much more will follow. England will shortly see the most efficient Irishmen and suffer the consequences.

London, 16, 11 a. m.—There is an enormous crowd in the scene of the explosion on last night. In the local government board office in Westminster. The government inspector has made an examination of the portion of the building damaged by the explosion and places the loss at £4,000. The vessel which contained the explosive material was placed in the cellar of the local government board offices.

The Times says: If the Irish extremists are really going to blow up dynamite to any measure they disapprove of, it is certain the day of remedial legislation is over.

Later and closer inspection shows the explosion occurred from outside of the building.

The morning, says, in Manchester, Liverpool and London the feeling of English workmen towards the Irish people, once sympathetic, has become cold. It only depends on a few more cases of dynamite outrages to turn this feeling into actual hostility, which the authorities will find very difficult to control.

The Pall Mall Gazette says: In many maps of London the local group of board offices is marked as the home office. It is thought the attempt to blow up the former building was made with the idea that it was the latter, Sir William Harcourt, home secretary, being very obnoxious to Fenians.

Perth, 16, 16.—In an interview with the dynamite fiend, Pat Crowther, of this city, he professes great exultation at the attempt to blow up the government building in London, but did not favor the means employed. He prepared the silent destructive flame of the torch to the detonation of dynamite. His idea is to place 200 or 300 men in the larger cities of England, with a few barrels of petroleum, to await a windy night, and at a preconcerted signal make 100 conflagrations in as many cities, spread terror and destruction throughout the land, and make the British lion howl for peace and accede to any terms. Pat was fervent while depicting the scenes of terror thus caused. He disclaims connection with the London explosion, but rejoices at its effect. He knew nothing about it till this morning. He thought Rossa might have been aware of the plot and thinks it undoubtedly the work of invincibles.

Not Much Hurt.

New York, 16.—The jury in the case of Andrew F. Neville, who sued the proprietors of the Fifth Avenue Hotel for $50,000 for being ejected from the hotel, allowed him $250 damages. It is understood that ten of the jurors stood in favor of six cents, but afterwards compromised upon the verdict of $250.

Running a Hunch.

Little Rock, Ark., 16.—From advice from Indian Territory the prevailing belief is that Sleeping Rabbit, the leading man of Spook's band of rebellious Crooks, who with others was captured last week, was summarily executed by General Porter's forces after they had been arrested. The Crook Indians were intensely excited over it. Intelligence received to-day on the subject gives a history of his death. The whole party had been given a preliminary examination before Judge Reek and two other judges in Oklahoma. After leaving the case they decided to hold Sleeping Rabbit, but release the others on condition of their taking an oath of allegiance to the constitutional government. This they did. Sleeping Rabbit was confined in an upper room, but asked permission to go out, which he was allowed to do, accompanied by two companions, followed by the guard, David Lizzmore. When he reached the door he slammed it in the guard's face and started to run. As soon as the guard got out he ordered him to halt, but he did not, when Lizzmore fired on him; but he still ran. Again the guard fired, with the same result. At the fourth fire he fell with a bullet in his brain, and died in a few minutes. On examination it was found that every shot hit him, two of them being through the head.

Some Chinese.

Washington, 16.—O. W. Denny, consul general of the United States at Shanghai, China, forwarded to the state department $2,355 in United States gold coin to be placed to the credit of the Garment Memorial hospital fund. Three hundred dollars of this amount was contributed by Chinese friends of Denny, who in forwarding the subscription said they would be most happy to lead a Chinese circular and send it around among our friends, but to ask our countrymen to subscribe to a hospital to be built in a country which will not permit Chinese to enter it for ten years is more than we dare do. The balance of the contribution was obtained from citizens residing in China.
